Six Risks, Six Opportunities 2017:

Your guide to the challenges that will shape policy, strategy and operations in 2017

If this year was a year of political earthquakes, 2017 will be a year of aftershocks of potentially similar magnitude.

Understanding the coming 12 months will demand insight into the world's geopolitical underpinnings as much or more as its economic fundamentals.

That is as true for those guiding governments and investment portfolios as for those steering corporations.

Our global network of experts and in-house analysts who produce the Daily Brief have identified six sets of critical risks and opportunities for 2017.

These are points where macro political issues intersect with global economics, and that will shape outcomes in what promises to be a no less volatile and complex year than the one now ending.

Please join Oxford Analytica experts to discuss these risks and opportunities – and raise those you think will be critical in 2017 that you would like us to address – in a special year-end client conference call.

Chair

Paul Maidment, Director of Analysis and Managing Editor, Oxford Analytica

Paul Maidment joined Oxford Analytica in December 2014 as the Director of Analysis and Managing Editor of the Oxford Analytica Daily Brief.

He is an award-winning journalist who founded the New York-based digital editorial consultancy Bystander Media in 2010. A pioneer in combining digital and print journalism, he was previously Editor of Forbes.com and Executive Editor of Forbes, transforming a magazine website into the leading online destination for business, finance and up-scale lifestyle. Before joining Forbes in 2001, Paul was the founding Editor of the Financial Times' award-winning web site FT.com and Assistant Editor of the newspaper. His early career as an editor and foreign correspondent encompassed The Economist, the Asian Wall Street Journal and the BBC in the U.K. the U.S. and Asia — a depth of journalistic experience and breadth of media that gives him a unique perspective on the changes transforming publishing and the world economy. Paul was inducted into the Digital Hall of Fame in New York in 2010.
